TRIAGE CANCER TO HOST EVENT IN HOUSTON, TX

June 19, 2019 — Triage Cancer Chief Executive Officer, Joanna Morales, Esq., today announced the organization will host a free conference to assist individuals diagnosed with cancer and caregivers in navigating practical cancer survivorship issues.

The conference will provide attendees with valuable information about addressing the many practical issues that arise after a cancer diagnosis, such as how to work through treatment or take time off, how to make health insurance choices, how to understand how to effectively use their health insurance to minimize their medical expenses, how to maintain their income and pay their bills, and deal with other daily challenges that contribute to the financial toxicity of cancer.

Attendees of the Triage Cancer Conferences will walk away with an increased understanding of their options and rights as well as learn about useful tools to assist them in navigating health insurance, finances, estate planning, disability insurance, taking time off work, and returning to work. In an ever-changing environment, attendees will get the most up-to-date information on issues that may impact the cancer community.

This event is free and open to the entire community. Patients and survivors can apply for travel assistance grants. Nurses and social workers can also receive free continuing education units.
